The Lock family of Dorchester, Dorset: a pedigree compiled by David Beamish (see page 61)

Introduction

This is the third version of the Lock family tree which I have produced for circulation. The first was a typewritten, duplicated and comb-bound document produced in 1979, of which I distributed some 50 copies. The inspiration for it came mainly from a family tree compiled by Norman Francis Lock (see page 52), laid out in chart form on a very wide sheet, but for practical reasons I adopted a narrative format (retained in a modified form in this new version). Norman Lock's tree concentrated on the descendants of William Lock of Dorchester (1780–1851), and so did my 1979 version. The earliest parts of it were taken from a family tree prepared in about 1938 by a genealogist, J. Harvey Bloom. So far as practical I have checked and where necessary corrected information taken from Bloom's family tree.

In 1984 I retyped my 1979 family tree, with corrections, updates and a few additions, using an early word processor, and printed it out on a daisy-wheel printer. Only a few photocopies were distributed. There soon came a time when the word processor (which used 8" floppy disks) was superseded, and I was unable to convert the data. The effort of retyping discouraged me from preparing another edition until recently I gained access to a scanner, which I have used to scan the 1984 version – not an entirely straightforward process, but at least less tedious than complete retyping.

I have realised that developments since the late 1970s, when I undertook my research, mean that there is a lot more work that I ought to do on the pedigree before issuing it in anything other than a draft version. Not only have the 1881, 1891 and 1901 censuses been made public, but developments in computing and more recently the Internet, coupled with the extensive genealogical indexing activity of the Church of Latter-Day Saints (the Mormons), have opened up a remarkable range of resources to genealogists. So, while work remains in progress, I have decided to make available draft versions to family members, distinguishing different versions by draft number and date. A “version history” appears on page 6. The most notable development in this version (3.04) is the inclusion of information from the digital archive of The Times up to 1985. I have undertaken a reasonably thorough search of the births, marriages and deaths for “Lock” entries and have searched for other surnames selectively. Well over 400 entries were found, and over 40 dates added as a result. A bonus was the discovery of a number of obituary notices, listed on page 8. A transcript of the entries noted is available separately.

This version has been prepared using Microsoft Word and printed using a laser printer, giving the appearance of printed rather than (as in previous versions) typewritten text. In recent years there have been significant developments in making family trees available electronically, for example as Internet web pages. This text is also available electronically as an Adobe Acrobat pdf (portable document format) file with hyperlinks to facilitate the use of cross-references. But I imagine that most users will still find a paper copy more manageable. At this stage I am not planning to publish an Internet version because of the invasion of privacy involved in relation to living people (and the extra work involved in producing a version without references to living people). I am open to suggestions as to ways to make available my material.

Corrections, additions and updates will be welcomed and will be included in future versions.

The layout of the family tree

The original family tree began with William Lock of Dorchester (1780–1851) (see page 14), and contained an appendix with details of his ancestry. This version adopts a slightly different principle which means that there is no need to relegate the earlier material to an appendix, and accordingly the family tree begins with William's great-grandfather, also William Lock (buried 1754) (see page 9).

The new principle adopted, which I hope is easier to follow, is that information is divided into sections which fit on a page; and all of a person's children are shown on one page. Where there is too much information to fit on a page, information about one or more branches will be found on a later page (cross-referenced).

Each person's entry normally comprises a single paragraph (except that a later marriage will form a separate paragraph when there are children of the previous marriage). Biographical information within that paragraph is broadly chronological, except that a living person's current address, if known, appears at the beginning (in italics) and details of any marriage, and biographical information about the spouse, appear at the end in order to lead on conveniently to information about children. Information about children is indented, and each child is given a number (which in a few cases may be arbitrary when the order of birth is unknown). Male and female children are distinguished by showing the numbers in bold for boys and italic for girls. Surnames are shown using capitals and small capitals (e.g. LOCK), and a person's usual forename (where known) is shown in bold. Where that name differs from the formally given names, it is bracketed (e.g. Henry Osmond (Harry) LOCK).

Where a person was married more than once, each marriage is numbered in brackets and italic, thus: (1st), (2nd). Details of the occupation, residence or parents of a spouse given at the start of the spouse's entry are shown as at the date of marriage (thus “the late” means that the parent had died before then).

Spans of time are indicated by en dashes, thus: “1904–10”. An approximate date may be indicated by an oblique stroke, thus: “1844/5”.

Abbreviations

Standard abbreviations are used for honours, degrees and professional qualifications. Months of six or more letters are abbreviated to the first three (Jan, Feb, Aug, Sep, Oct, Nov, Dec). “married” is abbreviated to “m”.

Numbering of individuals

The original 1979 family tree incorporated a system of numbering devised by the late Martin Pelton (see page 29). It looked rather complicated but could help to clarify the family relationship between different people on the tree, and made it easier to track back through a person’s ancestors. Each child of William Lock was numbered, and successive generations gained an extra number. In the case of females the number was shown underlined. Under that scheme I am 8.1.2.3.1

The use in this edition of separate pages for different sections of the family makes such a system less necessary, and less practical because later generations no longer need to be heavily indented from the left margin. But to enable the benefits of the system to be retained, I have included in the heading on each page the number of the person who begins that section. Numbers are shown in bold for males and italic for females. Numbers of others on the page can easily be derived by adding one or more additional numbers. In this edition the family tree begins, as indicated above, with an earlier William Lock (died 1754), with the result that “2.1.6.” is added to the front of the numbers in the 1979 edition.

Information given in the family tree

The following information about Locks and Lock descendants is usually, where known to me, included in the family tree:

- (1) Date and place of birth. In the case of the children of William Lock (1780–1851), the time of birth is given, taken from an old manuscript in the possession (1978) of George David Lock (see page 26), which I believe to be reliable as the other information it gives is correct.
- (2) Before 1900, date and place of baptism; names of godparents, where they appear in this family tree.
- (3) Secondary schools and universities at which educated; degrees obtained (with dates).
- (4) Honours etc. received, with dates.
- (5) Details of career, including war service; membership of professional bodies.
- (6) Residences, especially final or present residence. (In the case of married women, their married surname is given immediately before their present address.)
- (7) Date and place of death; cause of death if other than illness etc.
- (8) Place of burial (mentioning any monumental inscription there or elsewhere); date of burial if date of death not known.
- (9) Where dates of death and burial unknown, latest date at which known to be living and earliest date at which known to be dead (years only).
- (10) Date and place of marriage; name of spouse; date (year only) of any divorce.
- (11) Details of spouse: items (1) to (10) above, plus names of parents, including maiden name of mother, and their address.
- (12) Numbers of sons and daughters (who are then listed, with similar details given).

Version history and progress report

The bullet points below list specific work undertaken for each draft version of this pedigree and, at the end, further planned work. Individual updates, amendments and corrections are not noted.

Draft Version 3.01 produced 19 May 2002:

- Text scanned from 1984 version of the pedigree and checked against that version.
- My manuscript notes of amendments and updates incorporated.
- Additional information provided by Leonard Riddett on the family of Emma Riddett née George (see page 71) added.
- Additional information provided by David Ellis on the family of Mary Elizabeth Cross née Lock (see page 45) and on the adopted family of Jane May Style née Lock (see page 69) added.
- Information in the 11th (1997) edition of the “Marlborough College Register” added
- Consistent formatting applied to numbers, surnames, usual forenames and addresses.
- Text split into sections of not more than a page, and headings and cross-references added.
- Numbering of individuals along the lines of the 1979 edition incorporated in headings.
- Information from the on-line records of the Commonwealth War Graves Commission (www.cwc.org.uk) added in relation to those who died in the two World Wars.

Draft Version 3.02 produced 1 July 2002:

- Index added.
- Contents page added.
- List of sources of information added.

Draft Version 3.03 produced 9 December 2002:

- Information added from Adventure in Publishing: The House of Ward Lock 1854–1954 by Edward Liveing (Ward, Lock & Co, 1954).
- A start made on incorporating information from the 1881 census of Great Britain (using the CD-ROM version produced by the Church of Latter-Day Saints).
- Details of the marriage of the William Lock at the head of the family tree amended (on the basis that the information previously taken from an earlier family tree seems likely to be wrong).

Draft Version 3.04 produced 8 April 2004:

- Information added from the digital archive of The Times, 1900–1985. (Births, marriages and deaths searched for occurrences of the name “Lock”, and selective searching undertaken for other surnames.)
- Information added from the 1881 census of Great Britain.
- Family trees added showing links with the Bascombe, May and Wills families (based on those on pages 37 and 38 of the 1979 family tree) – see pages 74–75.
- A start made on checking entries in the 1901 GB census.

Further work:

The following work remains to be undertaken (and the list may grow as further possibilities are identified):

- Residential addresses to be checked in case they have changed.
- Additional information provided by Alfred & Ruth Kahl on the Hancock and Fudge families to be added.
- Additional information provided by Jennifer Perry née Rowley on the family of Elizabeth Fudge née Lock (see page 11) to be added.
- Entries in the 1901 GB census to be checked (and 1891 when the on-line version is made available).
- Check the Latter-Day Saints’ International Genealogical Index (IGI), through the Internet search facility www.familysearch.org, for all relevant data.
- Internet sources for overseas information (especially Australia and the USA) to be identified and checked.
- Use the Internet-based FreeBMD database to locate missing 19th century births, marriages & deaths in England & Wales.

Sources of information

To attempt to quote sources of information within the family tree would unduly complicate it. There follows a summary of the principal sources of information used.

- (1) Personal information from the people themselves or close relatives.
- (2) Birth, marriage and death certificates of my own ancestors. Much use has also been made, for others in the family tree, of the indexes to these certificates, and recently of the partial online version of the pre-1900 indexes available at <http://freebmd.rootsweb.com/>.
- (3) Birth, marriage and death notices in newspapers. The Dorset County Chronicle (weekly, 1821–1957) has been systematically searched for such notices from 1829 to 1919.
- (4) The indexes to grants of probate and letters of administration since 1858 give (except in recent years) date of death, residence of the deceased, place of death if different, and names of executors. Many dates of death given were obtained from, or checked in, these indexes.
- (5) A number of wills have been consulted in the following places:
  - Dorset County Record Office, Dorchester (wills proved at Blandford 1858–1941 and most pre-1858 Dorset wills)
  - Principal Registry of the Family Division (wills proved from 1858)
  - Public Record Office, London (wills proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury)
  - Wiltshire County Record Office, Trowbridge (will of Elizabeth Lock – see page 10)
- (6) Burke's publications (Peerage and Baronetage, Landed Gentry etc.) and, to a lesser extent, Debrett's Peerage and Baronetage have been consulted. Burke's Landed Gentry, 1952 edition, includes a Lock pedigree, "Lock of York House". Henry Osmond Lock (see page 58) is named as head of the family. Only a few members of the family are included: William Lock (see page 9), George Lock (see page 10), George Lock (see page 11), William Lock (see page 14), Henry Lock (see page 58), Arthur Henry Lock (see page 58) and his children, and the children of Henry Osmond Lock. Three of the dates given are incorrect.

The following pedigrees in Burke's publications include people who appear in this family tree. The most recent edition in which the pedigree appears is given. The latest complete edition of the Landed Gentry was in three volumes, published in 1965, 1969 and 1972. The first volume of a new edition appeared in 2001; it covered "The Kingdom in Scotland".

Ailesbury, Marquess of (family name: Brudenell-Bruce) (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Allison (Landed Gentry 1972)
Beamish (Irish Family Records 1976)
Beaufort, Duke of (family name: Somerset) (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Bonn (Landed Gentry 1965)
Burnaby (Landed Gentry 1965)
Campbell (Landed Gentry 2001)
Chetwynd (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Copeman (Landed Gentry 1972)
Drury (Landed Gentry 1969)
Forester, Lord (family name: Weld-Forester) (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Kyffin (Landed Gentry 1972)
Lentaigne (Irish Family Records 1976)
Listowel, Earl of (family name: Hare) (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Lock (Landed Gentry 1952 – see note above)
Milman (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)
Mure (Landed Gentry 2001)
Richards (Landed Gentry 1969)
Wills (Peerage & Baronetage 2004)

- (7) The Dictionary of National Biography includes a biography of Walter Lock (see page 63).
- (8) Who's Who and Who Was Who include biographies of the following Locks and Lock descendants:
  - Beamish, David Richard (born 1952) (see page 61)
  - Cardigan, Earl of (born 1952) (see page 21)
  - Lock, Benjamin Fossett (1847–1922) (see page 65)
  - Lock, George David (born 1929) (see page 26)
  - Lock, John Bascombe (1849–1921) (see page 50)
  - Lock, Robert Heath (1879–1915) (see page 50)
  - Lock, Walter (1846–1933) (see page 63)

Wills, Ernest Edward de Winton (1903–83) (see page 20)
Wills, David Seton (born 1939) (see page 22)

They also include biographies of the following who married Locks or Lock descendants:

Ailesbury, 8th Marquess of (born 1926) (see page 21)
Baker, Ian Helstrip (born 1927) (see page 62)
Bulkeley, John Pierson (1879–1958) (see page 68)
Burnaby, John (1891–1978) (see page 54)
Hopkins, Alan Cripps Nind (born 1926) (see page 20)
Mure, Geoffrey Reginald Gilchrist (1893–1979) (see page 16)
Wheatcroft, George Shorrocks Ashcombe (1905–87) (see page 64)
Wills, Ernest Salter (1869–1958) (see page 17)

- (9) The on-line digital archive of The Times up to 1985 has been searched for birth, marriage and death notices. In addition, obituary notices (listed chronologically) were found for the following Lock descendants:
  - Lock, George (14 August 1891, page 8)
  - Lock, John Henry (31 December 1904, page 3)
  - Lock, George Ernest (16 April 1906, page 4)
  - Lock, Robert Heath (29 June 1915, page 12)
  - Lock, Arthur Cuthbert (12 September 1916, page 4)
  - Lock, John Bascombe (9 September 1921, page 11)
  - Lock, Benjamin Fossett (12 August 1922, page 14)
  - Lock, George Herbert (23 June 1924, page 14)
  - Lock, Walter William (10 September 1924, page 15)
  - Lock, Robert Douglas (2 December 1926, page 9)
  - Lock, Walter (14 August 1933, page 14)
  - Lock, Walter Heathcote (15 July 1943, page 7)
- (10) Venn's Alumni Cantabrigiensis gives helpful biographical information about people going up to Cambridge before 1900. These include eight Locks and Lock descendants.
- (11) The Navy List and the Army List give details of careers in the forces. V. C. P. Hodson's Officers of the Bengal Army supplied details of the careers of John Bascombe Lock (see page 14) and Charles Clark (see page 13).
- (12) Certain school registers have been consulted, in particular that of Marlborough College (9th edition 1843–1952, 10th edition 1952–75, and 11th edition 1903–96) where over twenty Locks and Lock descendants have been educated.
- (13) Some information has been taken from the 1841, 1851, 1861 and 1871 census returns, consulted at the Public Record Office and the Dorset County Library, Dorchester. The transcription of the 1881 census undertaken by the Church of Latter-Day Saints has been searched systematically. A start has been made on searching the 1901 census, recently made available on-line. A problem here has been the inaccuracy of the transcription, making searching difficult. For example, my grandfather "Henry Osmond Lock" is indexed as "Harvey Demond Lock". As yet, no work has been undertaken on the 1891 census (in the hope that a searchable version will be available in the near future).
- (14) The registers of a number of Dorset parishes have been consulted at the Dorset County Record Office. The registers of all three of the Dorchester parishes – Holy Trinity, St Peter's and All Saints (now merged into one) – include baptisms, marriages and burials of members of the Lock family. These registers are the principal source of the information given on pages 9 to 13. I have also consulted the registers of the Salisbury parishes at the City Muniment Room, Salisbury.
- (15) Monumental inscriptions have been noted in Dorchester Cemetery and elsewhere. The existence of an inscription, where I myself have seen it or have definite evidence of it, is indicated in the family tree by the abbreviation "MI". Most of my research was done in the late 1970s, so some inscriptions may since have disappeared.
- (16) I have sometimes included, without corroboration, information from family trees compiled by others, where these appeared to be reliable. A book of family information kept by Benjamin Fossett Lock (see page 65), and lent to me by his granddaughter Rosemary Hart (see page 68), was of particular value.
